Global Consulting E-X-P-A-N-D-S Services for Greater Customer Care with its Latest Acquisition

Acquiring Warnock Solutions, Global Consulting now offers higher-end technological repair-to-maintenance capabilities and IT solutions, all under one roof!

June 5, 2007 – Irvine, Calif. – Global Computing, Inc., parent company of Global Consulting, recently announced its newest acquisition ... Warnock Solutions, a recognized computer consulting and IT company in Orange County. Adding even more value to the acquisition, Warnock Solutions' former owner and highly trained technician, Sean Warnock, will stay onboard to look after specific operations.

“Just like Global Consulting, Warnock Solutions has been based in the OC a long time, also covering outlying areas, which brings more capabilities to our customers,” explains Droker. “By keeping Sean a part of our team, we offer a new high-end, MCSE-certified presence that allows us to take on larger and more complex jobs. Sean will become our Senior Network Engineer.”

This is the second recent acquisition, says Droker. The first was the IT division of New York-based Teach Me PC, which always had its IT operations based in southern California.

“Our last acquisition was exciting news for our customers and Southern California PC users, because it gave our company greater ability to more quickly resolve technological issues they encounter with their computers and systems,” says Droker.

A recognized leader in providing skilled technological solutions, Global Consulting offers the following IT solutions to Southern California businesses:

• Office Automation • Networking Capabilities • Hardware & Software issues • Management of Internal Applications • Law Office Management Systems • Creation & management of Specialized Database Systems • Inventory Control • Software Programming

According to Droker, the company's services don't stop there.

“We design exact computer systems to meet customer objectives, determine if existing resources can meet the requirements and whether additional hardware or software is required,” says Droker. “We can upgrade, plan and implement complete systems, from hardware and software to complete networks. We consider ourselves part of the customer's team, and offer complete service and support after the sale. We stay true to our mission statement, which is to provide responsive, responsible customer service to our clients in a way that will instill enough trust that they will want to refer us to their friends and colleagues.”

Droker adds that this approach isn't the only thing that sets Global Consulting apart from the competition. “Our responsiveness to our customers' needs makes them keep coming back for services,” says Droker. “When their computers go down, they need to get them back up fast. When a customer calls, we are immediately available, which is sort of unheard of in our industry. Our customers continue to be loyal, because they know they come first with us and always will.”

Every Global Consulting technician is specially trained and highly qualified to respond to customer needs; the company is so confident in their service capabilities that they offer two things:

1) FREE initial troubleshooting evaluation

2) Discount on maintenance of multiple machines

“Our goal is to provide the best client service in a way that will instill enough trust that they will want to refer us to their friends and colleagues,” says Droker. “With this latest acquisition, the company brings more expansive capabilities to our customers than many of our competitors can offer. We can design, engineer, install, and maintain high-end networking from a single location. We offer a full team of computer professionals for less than the cost of one full-time technician! Now, that's a real benefit to our customers.”

Jeff Lazerson, president of Mortgage Grader in Laguna Niguel, Calif., agrees that Global offers excellent client care.

“Global Consulting has been the technological support of my business for 16 years,” says Lazerson. “I am grateful to have such a dependable, efficient and punctual service provider supporting our every day needs and guiding our growth. I send everyone I know that has technology needs to Shaw. It doesn't get any better than Shaw Droker; we call him 'Mr. Honest.' That goes for his team, too.”
