Global Consulting among the First to Bring Hosted Exchange 2010 to Market

May 1, 2010 –Fountain Valley, Calif. –

Global Consulting has long been a leader in innovation and technology management. Our long term commitment to expansion into the world of Cloud Computing makes us among the front runners in this emerging and influential technology.

Cloud Computing refers to use of computers, reachable with any internet connection, to host business functions formerly kept "in-house." The startup costs of adding or upgrading, for example, an email server to your business can be very large. And the ongoing maintenance is also a monthly cost that must be absorbed by the company. Cloud Computing offers an easy and inexpensive way to add highly efficient and effective business technology tools to your business. And security and stability is insured, and user mobility enabled, through the use of these centralized services.

In keeping our customer's needs forefront, Global Consulting is now pleased to offer Microsoft Exchange 2010 to our offerings. This new and advanced set of tools from Microsoft brings users best of breed features at low cost and easy startup. And as new releases become available, you can bet Global Consulting will be evaluating them for ways they can be of use to our valued clients.

About Global Consulting, a division of Global Computing, Inc. – Located in Fountain Valley, Calif., the company has shown continued growth since its inception in January of 1990.
